

I WANNA RUN (C) Dreamfield

They don't want this, and they don't want that. Saying stupid things they don't regret
Looking for themselves, don't care about the rest. Talking about each other, they don't hold back
Just sit and wait for things to come. Drinking coffee, just stay at home.
They're growing big and fat. Smoking cigarettes and things like that.

I don't like people hating everything. Without solutions for anything.
Just complaining to complain. Waiting for the sun after the rain.
I was born here (in this village) But I have a growing fear.
That I don't belong here anymore. Don't know what I'm living for.

I don't speak the language. People are ignoring me.
I don't want to be judged. I just wanna be free
I want to run
Run away from here
Cause I can't bear
All the gossip here
Which I don't wanna hear
Don't wanna stay
Stay for longer here
I got some awesome fear
So I won't let a tear

When I'm away, from (here)
Here I'm gonna live and here I'm gonna die. Outward I laugh but inside I cry
Why I stayed and didn't leave. Not listening to my heart but still believed That I could build bridges to their hearts. Not knowing that I would fall apart.
Why do I deserve all these things and what will my destiny bring
I'm too soft for growing strong. That's why I think that here I belong.

Cause people here are close to you and most of times they are social too
Their mouth are big but their hearts are small. They are not wrong or bad at all
They just want to prove themselves, so they can put their mind on a shelf.
I think that I have to bear and accept, their complaints and their regrets
I have to live with it , and make the best of it

Don't have to run
Run away from here
So I have to bear
All the gossip here
Which I have to hear
I have to stay
Stay forever here
I don't have to fear
And won't let a tear
When I stay here
